DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The phrase “the removable anchor” lacks antecedent basis in claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3,5-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Aoki. Aoki shows a child restraint seat anchor (3) that detects whether a child restraint seat is attached to a vehicle seat, the child restraint seat anchor device comprising: a housing (3) adapted to be fixed to the vehicle seat; a movable anchor (12) having a coupler portion (Fig. 2a) and mounting portion, that is adapted to couple with a coupler (13) on the child restraint seat while the mounting portion being received in the housing. The moveable anchor is shiftable within the housing from a first position, indicating that a child seat is not attached to the vehicle seat, to a second position, indicating that a child seat is attached to the vehicle seat via at least one spring (col. 7 line 43) applying a bias to the movable anchor that urges the movable anchor to the first position. A first stop is engaged by the removable anchor when the movable anchor has shifted to the second position, the second stop, when engaged by the movable anchor transferring force applied by the coupler of the child restraint seat to the vehicle seat (the respective walls defined by the notch as shown in Fig. 2a). A switch (15) in operative association with the movable anchor, the switch being adapted for connection to an air bag to disable deployment of the air bag, or to reduce deployment speed of the air bag, upon the movable anchor being shifted to the second position.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 11-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aoki. Aoki shows all of the teachings of the claimed invention except the use of a pair of child restraint anchors. It would have been an obvious multiplicity of parts to modify the seat back (1) of Aoki with a pair of child restraint seat anchors which seats are conventionally equipped therewith. Furthermore the moveable anchor inherently pivots from the first position to the second position as the force of the coupler pivots the moveable anchor downward initially.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 4, and 7-10 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Reference Nos. 6,371,516, 6,250,672, 6,007,093, 5,992,879 show features of the claimed invention.
